On the Use of Nouns and Adjectives.

A few words on the careful selec tion of nouns and adjectives are in order at this time. As to adjectives, the fewer of them the better: and the less impressionistic those few, the better. Adjectives often signify nothing more than opinion, or personal excitesent, or apprehension, or hate. Nouns, on the other hand, denote so on; and it was never more im-talkers to bear this in mind. Why, then, are we hearing so much just now about the possibility of "concomions" on the part of Germany : of a "surrender"; of a "backdown"? No "concession" is required to meet the American case. There is no "surrender" on the part of Germany in doing what that Government has promised us to do. There is no "backdown" in the acceptance of principles which are both legally unquestionable against it among intelligent men. and morally right.

The Burnett Immigration Bill.

The Burnett immigration bill, which has passed the House and is now before the Senate, offends good judgment and ignores experience in its provision imposing a literacy test on applicants for admission to the United States. At any time such a test would be mischievous and harmful: at present, when the industries of the country are suffering from a shortage of labor, it would rise to the height of economic madness.

BUSINESS COURSES

School Opening Sept. 27 to Have Full Preparation for Field of Trade.

MERCHANTS EXTEND AID

Columbia University issued yesterday its first announcement of the new school of business which will open on September 27 with eighty courses. Many prominent educators in the business field have been called to the faculty staff. The obfect of the school will be to afford the ough preparation and, as far as possible practical training for business.

The first year courses provide for a thorough foundation in accounting, his tory of American commerce, business or ganization, corporation finances and one of three modern languages. In the sec ond year provision is made for the students who desire to specialize.

Two years of college study are re quired as a foundation for admission to the school of business. Severa. large business houses not only in this city but throughout the country have offered their cooperation and students may pass their vacations working to offices.

The National City Bank of New York offers to a limited number of students an opportunity to prepare themselves for the services of the bank in foreign fields. Under this plan the students will spend
